SUMMER ACADEMY

Call for Applications

University of Glasgow

19-21 June 2024

The Law and Political Economy (LPE) in Europe Project invites applications for its second Summer Academy, taking place at the University of Glasgow on 19 – 21 June 2023. During an immersive 3-day Summer Academy, successful applicants will have the opportunity to collaborate with an international Faculty of leading researchers working in the field of LPE. The programme includes writing workshops, in-depth masterclasses covering key LPE subjects, sessions on policymaking, an introduction to heterodox economics, roundtable discussions, and social activities. We particularly encourage applications from researchers at the doctoral and early career stages.

Key areas of focus for the Academy are those that correspond to the crises currently impacting society, including those relating to the green transition, the food system, monetary and financial governance, and housing. Nonetheless, we invite applications from researchers working on any theme connected to LPE research within and beyond Europe, including contributions from researchers working on the international and transnational arenas.

On 18 June (12-17h), we are hosting a Satellite Workshop on “Rereading Legal Doctrines Through LPE”. The workshop explores how insights from LPE can be put to work in doctrinal analysis. We will structure our discussions around social institutions such as risk, consent, privacy, debt, public order. Interested participants are expected to actively contribute to the workshop by engaging with readings and preparing brief reflections. For any questions, please contact Klaas Eller at Klaas.eller@uva.nl

Applicants should submit a 500-word abstract outlining the longer paper (6,000-8,000 words) that they would propose to submit for the writing workshops, and a 2-page CV. Writing workshops will be convened by members of the Faculty, and participants are expected to read and comment on the work of their peers.

Participation in the Academy is funded thanks to the generous support of Partners for a New Economy. Accommodation and catering expenses will be covered, and travel budgets will be offered subject to budgetary constraints.

Applications should be submitted by 1 March 2024 to lpeineurope@gmail.com. Please also indicate whether you would like to also apply for the Satellite Workshop. Successful applicants will be notified within 2 weeks.
